BAGGETT

Last birthday bash: I was sicker than a dog. But I went to Catalina Island. It was nice to get away from the mainland for a little while. It gave me some nice healing time, and my man took great care of me and nursed me back to health. What's so funny? My man and my mom and dad make me laugh so much! I laugh a lot. I'm afraid I might have some serious laugh lines when I get older, but I guess that's better than anger lines, right? What's not? Movies—really good romantic, passionate and dramatic movies—make me cry. Also, seeing suffering people or children. I have a lot of sympathy for people who are hurt. Oh, another thing that makes me cry is when someone who supposedly loves me hurts me. What would you wear to the laundromat? A T-back and nothing else. Just kidding! I'd wear jeans and a T-shirt with sandals. To the Mansion? An amazing dress—something that's unique. It would have to be something really sophisticated but very sexy at the same time. Is there too much sex and violence on TV and in films? Yes, way too much. Everything I watch—everything—has something to do with sex. TV these days just throws it in your face. The TV networks should force the industry to come up with good entertainment for everyone. Children would have better role models and grow up with better attitudes about sex. How will being a BOL top 20 model change your career or personal life? It's given me more confidence to get my goals accomplished. I want to go back to school and become a pediatrician or a schoolteacher, somehow working with children. Final words: I love you guys! Thanks for all of your love and support time and time again. Winning top honors twice has been an amazing experience.

Amy MILLER

Survivor Gear: I'd bring my rottweiler doggie for companionship, love and protection, a candle for inner peace and a box of chocolates for cravings. Birthday Bash: I partied for two straight nights with family and friends. I love being a social butterfly—it's my favorite thing. What's so funny? I love to laugh at people who try to make me laugh. My dog is silly too. I love to be entertained because usually I'm the one doing the entertaining. It's nice to sit back and relax. What's not? Anything sad makes me cry. I cry at just about every movie. Damn, I'm much too emotional. The only thing positive about it is that it makes acting easy for me. What would you wear to the laundromat? My cotton slip dress. It's sexy, cute and practical. No panties, of course. What would you wear to the Mansion? Something very fashionable and definitely super sexy, but classy. Can't forget the rhinestones! How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? First I would have to selfishly buy a long white fur coat, then a white viper convertible, a diamond necklace and bracelet, then buy a party house and throw a huge bash! Would you want your daughter to pose for Playboy? Sure, have it be a family tradition. Playboy is so special, and so are the girls. How will making the top 20 change your life? It won't change my life, but I love the recognition. Final words: It's so great to be appreciated for something I love doing. Fans rock! I love you all.

Lisa

BOYLE

Birthday bash: I had a party at the Rainbow Bar and Grill in Hollywood where everyone had to come dressed from the Eighties. It used to be a huge hangout back then. I think some of the people who still hang out there don't know it's the year 2001. What's so funny? Very dry humor and people falling! I don't like it when they hurt themselves, but their expression going down is priceless! What's not? Seeing animals hurt in any way, even on the Discovery Channel when nature just takes its course. Also, saying good-bye. I hate it! What would you wear to the laundromat? Sweats and a T-shirt. What would you wear to the Mansion? That depends on the occasion. If it's the pajama party, then a wife-beater, boxer shorts and fuzzy slippers with a teddy bear backpack and pigtails. I like to be comfortable. Do you think there's too much sex and violence on TV and in films? I'd have to say no. It reflects what's really going on and I believe in freedom of speech. I think parents should be way more involved with their children, though, and not park them in front of the TV. Good parenting is the answer to cutting down on all the crap in this world. Would you want your daughter to pose for Playboy? I wouldn't push her into it, no. But if she chose to do it then I'd have to support her decision. Paper or plastic? Plastic. I know, I know—so not PC! How, if at all, will being voted into the top 20 change your career or personal life? I think it's so awesome to have been around Playboy for so long and still be voted in the top 20. I'm very honored! Words for your fans: Thank you so much for voting for me! I hope you like my new venture into photography—the shots of me here I took myself—as much as I like doing it!

Natasha

PODKUYKO

Last birthday bash: I was home with my parents feeling like no one cared about me. Then two of my guy friends called me up and took me out to dinner, so that made me feel really special.

What's so funny? I'll laugh when something unexpected happens in the middle of something normal. Or when there's a lot of positive energy and everybody is having a lot of fun—laughter just comes out naturally. What's not? Movies like "Never Been Kissed" and "The Professional" make me cry. What would you wear to the laundromat? Something baggy and unattractive.

What would you wear to the Mansion? Leopard-print shorts and a hot-pink tank top. I'd think, Finally a place where I can do my thing—feel super hot and sexy, feel free and have fun! How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? I'd send my parents on a very long vacation, help poor and sick people and save the rest for myself so that I could open up my own business.

But I would probably be confused by a lot of money. Would you want your daughter to pose for Playboy? Probably, if she could handle the criticism. If she loved it, had fun with it and was proud she'd have my blessing and support.

How will being a B&L top 20 model change your career or personal life? It makes me very proud and satisfied that working so hard to show the best of me has been appreciated. And it doesn't hurt to tell guys I've been in Playboy. It kind of gets their undivided attention! Fan finale: Thank you for lavishing the attention I crave. It makes my senses come alive, and it gives me a feeling of inspiration, excitement, lightness and joy.

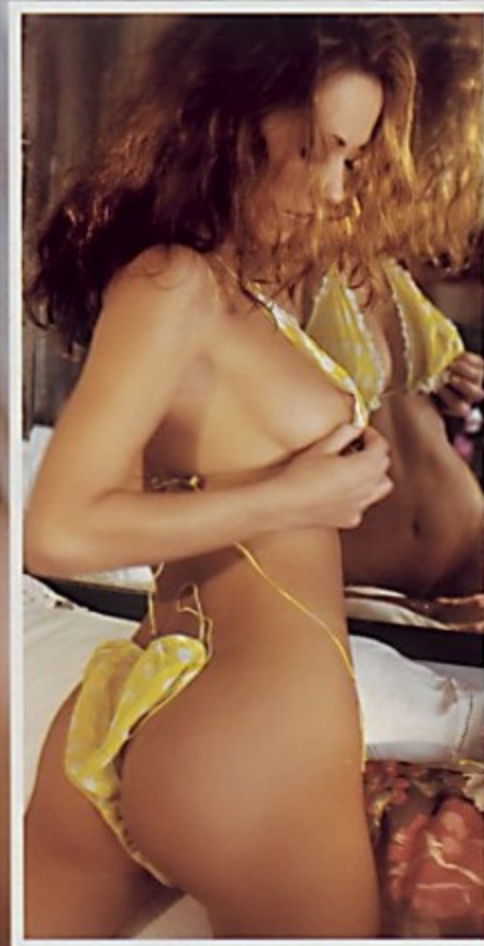

Last birthday bash: My birthday is on Halloween, so every year a bunch of friends rent a haunted house in Amityville, New York and have a party. We all dress up, of course. Guess what I was? A Bunny! What do you wear to the laundromat? Very, very glamorous stuff—a baseball cap, sweatpants and a tight baby T. Do you think there's too much sex and violence on TV? Absolutely, but as human beings we live for that stuff. Sad, huh? TV is geared for adults. As parents and teachers we should monitor what our kids watch. We're a free country; it's available to watch if we choose. Post-modeling plans: I definitely want to experience motherhood. I guess I'll need a husband. Then again, maybe I'll pull a Madonna! Paper or plastic? Paper. It's natural and comes from the earth. How will your selection to the top 20 change your professional and personal life? Career-wise I'll get more direct bookings and not have to deal with castings. Personally, this gives me an edge and helps my self-esteem—especially in relationships. A word to your fans: I want to thank everyone who voted for me. Thanks for appreciating my work, and keep looking for me!

Joy BEHRMAN

Brooke

RICHARDS

Last birthday bash? I had a fabulous dinner at a little French restaurant. I wore one of my sexy red dresses and my favorite red shoes! What's so funny? My favorite show of all time, "Seinfeld." What's not? To see the pain that others throughout the world have to endure. I wish I could help those people that cannot help themselves. Bad habits? Eating way too much and spending even more! How would you spend a $20 million dollar lottery jackpot? Invest in real estate and help others less fortunate. Is there too much sex and violence on television and in films? Yes! Free speech has been exploited. I'm sure that our founding fathers weren't expecting rape, heinous crimes and sadistic acts to be made readily available to anyone with cable or a video card. As individuals, we should take responsibility for what's allowed to come into our homes and our minds. If you could grab anything you wanted for free, where would you go and what would you grab? One thing comes to mind: the Smithsonian and my estranged best friend, the Hope Diamond. Paper or plastic? I've always preferred cash! Ha. The last word: I've met so many wonderful people and have enjoyed interacting with my fans. Thanks for voting me as one of your favorite BOL models. Now I have a question for you: Because of the diverse response that I received over changing my hair color, I want to know if I should be blonde or brunette!

Tiffany

TAYLOR

Survivor gear: If I were stranded on a deserted island I'd bring my migraine medicines, Coca-Cola and tweezers. What's so funny? "South Park," Chris Rock and my ferrets. What's not? When I see animals being neglected, abused or not being cared for. Or when the police are attacked by the media just to sell papers or magazines! How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? First I would pay off my dad and stepmom's house and all of their debts and then buy them new cars. I'd pay off my house and hire a decorator to redecorate. Finally, I would invest the rest of my money. I couldn't be a cop if I were rich because every jerk I encountered at work would try to sue me. I would just try to get a job in the field of law enforcement and try to help the officers in some way. Paper or plastic? Plastic. My ferrets like to play in the bags. The last word: Thank you for your support over the last three years. You are the best!

Jessica

TURNER

Survival gear: I'd take my Walkman, some batteries and one of my Alan Jackson CDs. I could go days without shaving, but I can't live without my music.

Last birthday bash: Well, my last one was my 21st, so I spent it hugging the toilet seat—swearing I'd never do it again! What's so funny? Everything! I'm easily amused.

What's not? Everything! I'm also very sensitive. How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? Give some to my family, buy a house in LA, get a new car, go on a shopping spree, get a boob job and live happily ever after!

Like mother, like daughter: If my daughter wanted to pose for Playboy it would be her choice. It would be cool to have the second-generation thing going, but I would never push it.

How will your selection to the top 20 change your professional life? I think it'll give me lots of exposure that could really get me noticed. Who knows? I might even pack up and move to LA.

Final words: This has been a dream of mine. I've met great people, been to great places and overcome (sort of) my biggest fear—flying. And, oh yeah, I still want to become a Playmate, so don't think I'm satisfied yet.

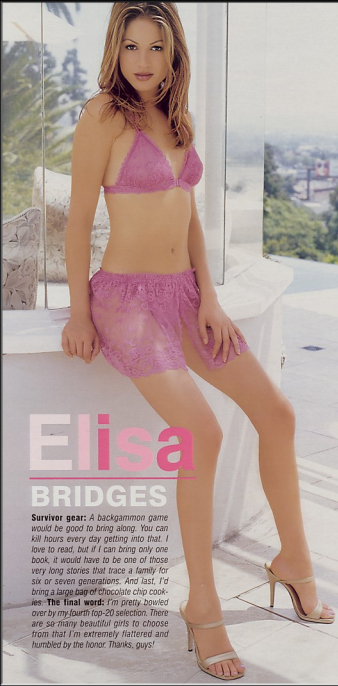

Patricia

FORD

Survivor gear: I'd bring deodorant, a toothbrush and a cute swimsuit. Last birthday bash: A whole bunch of friends and family went out to dinner, then we all went on the New York, New York roller coaster here in Vegas. It's a wild, wild ride! A few of us actually strained our backs. You basically get tortured on this thing! What's so funny? I laugh at comedy shows like "King of Queens." What's not? I always tear up when I see those ads for kids who are orphaned and need parents. Bad habits? I eat way too many sweets. I can't pass a 31 Flavors without going in to get a brownie à la mode. And I cuss too much. How would you spend a $20 lottery jackpot? I'd be very generous to my family, then maybe splurge on a gorgeous house. And I'd probably take all my friends on a European cruise. The final word: I can't thank my fans enough—both for their voting support and for the warmth they show me when I make appearances. Many hugs and kisses to all of you, and a warm aloha from Las Vegas!

Elisa

BRIDGES

Survivor gear: A backgammon game would be good to bring along. You can kill hours every day getting into that. I love to read, but if I can bring only one book, it would have to be one of those very long stories that trace a family for six or seven generations. And last, I'd bring a large bag of chocolate chip cookies. The final word: I'm pretty bowled over by my fourth top-20 selection. There are so many beautiful girls to choose from that I'm extremely flattered and humbled by the honor. Thanks, guys!

Sung Hi LEE

Survivor gear: I'd bring my dog, a picture of my family and a journal. Last birthday bash: I had a bowling party with a DJ. Later we went to dinner at a wonderful restaurant. Is there too much sex and violence on TV and in movies? No. I don't think so. But parents who want to regulate what their children watch on TV should make sure to spend more time in the home with them. Bad habits: Smoking and being too hard on myself. If you had to give up your looks for an Oscar, would you? Absolutely! I'm an actress, and I would do whatever it takes to become my character. I'm not afraid of looking ugly onscreen. Would you let your daughter pose for Playboy? I wouldn't want her to base her choice on mine, but if she wanted to, I'd support her. What would you wear to the laundromat? Sweats. To the Mansion? If it were casual, jeans, boots and a tank top. How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? Buy a home in New York City, take care of my family and invest well. Paper or plastic? Double plastic. I use it to pick up after my dog on our walks.

Would you rather be the president, an astronaut, a CEO or a wife and mother? A wife and mother. It's been a dream of mine since I was a little girl. How will your selection to the top 20 change your professional and personal life? Not at all. I hope to remain me through everything—the good and the bad.

Sydney

MOON

Survivor gear: If I were going to a deserted island I'd bring along my vibrator, a very long book and a lot of liquor. What's so funny? My friends and I love to clown around. Acting silly takes the pressure off of long workdays. What's not? Anything that moves me, whether it's happy or sad. It's all about emotional intensity and passion. What would you wear to the Playboy Mansion? Actually, I've gone several times and I've always worn next to nothing. The first time I wore a thong there, I was really shy until I saw tons of girls wearing only body paint. Do you think there's too much sex and violence on TV and in films? I find it ironic that anything with adult content is demonized, while violence is much more visible and its value is much more questionable. America obviously believes that its children need more protection from sex than from violence, but who gets to decide what gets regulated, and when? Paper or plastic? Plastic. But I try to bring my own tote bag, thanks. Final words: I'm so appreciative that people out there have voted for me. I plan to send this issue to all my ex-boyfriends and sign it! I've had so much fun working for Playboy and having had this opportunity. I loved meeting the other girls and finding out how nice and beautiful they all are.

Lisa Marie

SCOTT

Last birthday bash: I had a really intimate dinner party with my closest friends. What's so funny? The fish on "Ally McBeal." What's not? The movie "Terms of Endearment." It gets me sobbing every time. Bad habit? Procrastination. How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? I'd buy a beautiful home in southern California and vacation homes in Hawaii and Europe. The rest I would invest in stocks and give to charities. Is there too much sex and violence on TV and in films? There's too much violence, and we as a society should be more concerned about that than sex, which is a pretty natural part of life. Violence is not. If you could get anything for free, what would it be? An oceanside mansion in Southern California. Would you rather be president of the U.S., an astronaut, the CEO of a Fortune 500 company or a wife and mother? If I absolutely had to choose, I'd be a wife and mother, since having a large family would be such a fulfilling thing. Paper or plastic? Plastic. Final words: Thank you so much for your loyal support over the years. I'm honored to have retained such a following.

Petra

VERKAIK

Survivor gear: Boredom would probably be the biggest enemy, so I'd pack my water paints, my Game Boy and lots of batteries. Would you rather be the president, an astronaut, the CEO of a Fortune 500 company or a wife and mother? Hmm...well, I love to travel and you can't go much farther in this world than on a spaceship, so maybe I'd be an astronaut. I wonder if they make spacesuits in my size! The final word: You guys are just fabulous! I love you all for your loyalty and support.

Mikki

CHERNOFF

Survivor gear: I've gotta have my phone, my picture album and my baby boy. What's so funny? My son and the funny things he says. What's not? Certain love songs will tear me up. Would you make a deal with the Devil—stardom for your looks? Absolutely! At least I'd be known as more than "boobs on a stick." Would you let your daughter pose for Playboy? Yes, of course. I would never judge her. Unconditional love all the way! Paper or plastic? Plastic. End of story. Would you rather be a CEO of a Fortune 500 company or a wife and mother? Both. I'd love to make the calls and be important in every aspect of my life. How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? I'd give some to family, friends and charities, then I'd practice some random acts of kindness—like handing out money to people walking on the street. How has being chosen a top 20 model changed your life? I feel like the world is my oyster! It makes a little girl from Liverpool with a big mouth and a muppet face believe anything is possible. The final word: Thank you all. Without you I'm nothing.

Mysti

SHERWOOD

Survivor gear: I'd bring my Swiss army knife, a butane lighter and, of course, my cell phone.

Last birthday bash: I threw a pool party with 85 of my closest friends.

And, yes, there was a bikini contest! Funny moment on set: I got busted for wearing a hair extension. Would you let your daughter pose for Playboy? I can't risk being a hypocrite, can I? I'd support her in whatever she wanted to do.

What would you wear to the laundromat? The ugliest thing in my closet. I don't need that kind of attention! To the Mansion? I'd design and make my own outfit so the evening would be both memorable and sentimental to me.

How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? I'd give half to my financial advisor to invest. Then I'd invite all my friends and family and take them on one big, huge, wild vacation together!

Paper or plastic? Depends on my mood. Is there too much sex and violence on TV and in films? I think TV and films represent society as it is today. We don't need to sugarcoat it.

The final word: Big hugs all around for everyone who voted for me! I'm honored and flattered by your support, but I promise it won't go to my head. I'm the same person I was yesterday and I'll be the same person tomorrow.

Survivor gear: I'd have to have a knife, a lighter and some paper. Paper is a must because I'd have to write to keep sane. All the other stuff—tent, blanket, clothes—I can live without. Last birthday bash: I turned 21, so I hit some wild clubs and drank a lot. What's so funny? Irony, stupidity and when people are wild and crazy in serious public situations. Bad habits? Procrastination, sloppiness and smok-

Heather

CHRISTENSEN

Q: Is there too much sex and violence on TV and in films? No. People overrate sex and violence. It's how ideals are raised, not what you see on TV. I'm totally against censorship. If you could grab anything you wanted for free, where would you go and what would you grab? I really don't want anything material. I have everything I need. Well, come to think of it, my car's in bad shape, so I guess I'd grab some new wheels. Paper or plastic? Plastic. I use them over and over. How will being voted into the top 20 affect you or your career? I'm incredibly flattered and surprised. I wasn't sure how readers felt about me. I'm just a small-town girl, and all of this really hasn't changed me. I still sometimes wonder if all of this is real!

Laurie

WALLACE

Survivor gear: I'd bring lots of sunscreen, Nutella (German chocolate hazelnut spread. I put it on everything!) and plenty of condoms! What's so funny? I love dirty jokes and British TV sitcoms! What's not? I cry sometimes when I think about people I've lost touch with in my life. What do you wear to the laundromat? My building has a laundry facility and I had the idea to do a series of photos where I take off all my clothes and wash them. I was having a blast until the security cameras caught me and the building manager made me stop! What would you wear to the Playboy Mansion? My sexiest black stockings, G-string and heels! How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? Wow! I'd really like to test this one out. First of all, I'd invest about $10 million of it. Then I'd give five million to my parents so that my father could retire and they could relax and live well without ever working again. I'd give the other 5 million to programs for the education and care of children. Do you think there's too much sex and violence on TV and in films? It's definitely getting to the point where nothing is sacred in the media and I think we are becoming desensitized to it all. But sex is a natural thing and I think it's OK to show it. Violence is not. I think that the government should regulate the depiction of acts which are considered illegal—murder, rape, etc. Your days of modeling are over. Which would you rather be, President of the U.S., an astronaut, the CEO of a Fortune 500 company or a wife and mother? Who says that I couldn't be both a CEO and a wife and mother? Being successful in business would be satisfying in one sense, but I think true joy will come from being a wife and mother and I really look forward to experiencing that. Paper or plastic? I hate to say it, but I use plastic because it is easier to carry, plus I reuse the bags as trash bags so it's almost like I'm recycling, right? The final word: Wow! Thanks for all of your support—it means a lot to me! Don't forget to watch for me in the NBC series 'Ed' and in the upcoming films 'No Expectations' and 'Double Whammy' with Elizabeth Hurley and Dennis Leary.

Katalina

VERDIN

Last birthday bash: It was pretty mellow. My boyfriend and I lounged around, ate pizza and watched movies on the VCR. It was really a lot more fun than it sounds. What's so funny? My three-year-old niece keeps me in stitches whenever I'm around her. And a good comedy show like "Seinfeld" will produce the yucks. What's not? Violence against people and animals makes me cry. And certain movies do too. I watched "Life Is Beautiful" nine times and cried every single time! What would you wear to the laundromat? Comfy loose jeans, a half-top and a ponytail. To the Mansion? An elegant, black, tight, sexy dress. Bad habits? Oh, I'd have to say Mexican food. I eat way too much of it. And though I'm not a big drinker, I'm a sucker for a good martini. How would you spend a $20 million lottery jackpot? I know it sounds trite, but I'd probably give most of it away to friends and family. Maybe I'd take a group to Australia on vacation to celebrate first, but I don't need that kind of money to be happy. The final word: Thanks to everyone! This has been a wonderful couple of years—great friends, great travel, great times. I owe so much of it to the readers who voted for me. Big kisses to every one of you.

SPYTEK

Survivor gear: I love to sing and dance, so I guess a CD player and lots of CDs would be a must. Reading is a good time-killer, so being marooned on an island would give me the chance to finally read "War and Peace." How will making the top 20 affect your personal life? Not at all. I'm happy with who I am and won't let this affect me—other than to be so grateful that guys out there like me and took the time to vote for me. Thanks so much to all of you!
